

Welsh Baccalaureate

Top tips for your Community Challenge

What's the Challenge?

All children and young people have rights. And everyone under 18 has a right to know their rights!

Sally Holland, the Children's Commissioner for Wales, challenges you to deliver training about children's rights in your school so that other young people know about their rights and also know that Sally's job is to help children in Wales experience their rights.

You can complete Sally's challenge as your Welsh Baccalaureate Community Challenge at Key Stage 4. You can find the Challenge Brief on the WJEC Challenge Bank.

What resources might help us?

You'll find a lot of resources online to help you understand more about rights and Sally's job. The following websites will help:

- www.childcomwales.org.uk - This site explains the Commissioner's work.
- Our Student Ambassadors scheme has online resources for schools and we also send out additional resources if your school signs up to the scheme. You can sign up to the scheme for free here.
- www.uncrcletsgetitright.co.uk - This site has lots of activities and resources for young people to learn about rights.
- E mail Sally's office at post@childcomwales.org.uk to let us know you're doing the challenge, or tweet us at @childcomwales.

What could we include?

You'll find lots of activities on the websites above but you also might want to include:

- Information so that other young people know about Sally's Investigation and Advice service and how to contact Sally's office if a young person is being treated unfairly.
- An evaluation of your training at the end of the session: have young people learnt more about their rights and the role of the Commissioner?

Passionate about children's rights? Stay involved by signing up to our free Student Ambassadors scheme.