

You could use these questions, written by Sally's team, to help you discuss well-being with your schools' senior leaders. You can also choose your own questions to ask.

1. What does well-being mean to you?
2. What is the best thing your school does for pupil well-being?
3. Do all pupils in your school have the chance to share their views on pupils' well-being?
4. Does your school have a lead teacher for well-being?
5. Does your school have a lead governor* for well-being?

What is a governor?

Every school has a governing body and their job is to make decisions about how the school is run.

They decide how the school spends its money, and they need to make sure that school policies help every child to learn and to be healthy and safe.
