

CCFW Ambassador Scheme

WWW.CHILDCOMWALES.ORG.UK

How can Ambassadors be beneficial to your school?

You can run the scheme in the way that works best for your school. This could be using a pre-existing group like your school council/pupil voice or rights group to lead the work or starting fresh with a new group. Some schools choose to nominate two ambassadors whilst others may choose to work with a whole group.

We have come across great rights groups all across Wales with a range of excellent names including; 'Rights Rangers' 'Wellbeing warriors' & 'Criw hawliau.'

Remember to follow @childcomwales

What you get:

Rights Ambassadors and the Curriculum

We've mapped the curriculum against the UNCRC and the UNCRPD. You can read more here.

Understanding and promoting respect for human rights are part of Welsh Government's wider requirements for curriculum design. There are three main elements of human rights education:

- Learning about human rights: The acquisition of knowledge and skills about human rights;
- Learning through human rights: The development of respectful values and attitudes and changed behaviour that reflects human rights values; and,
- Learning for human rights: The motivation of social action and empowerment of active citizenship to advance respect for the rights of all

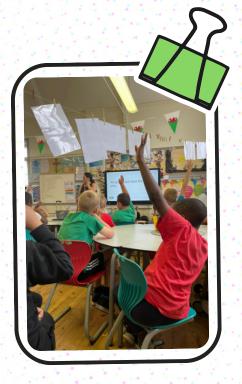

The Curriculum and Assessment (Wales) Act 2021 also requires all settings to promote knowledge and understanding of the UNCRC and UNCRPD among all practitioners and other school staff providing learning.

The concepts and principles of human rights also directly link to learning across all areas of the curriculum. These links can be made in settings to ensure that practitioners and children develop an understanding of how education supports human rights.

Please tag us into any social media posts you make about your fantastic rights work so we can share them!
